The Admin interface in eZ publish is user friendly and can be customized to suit your task, experience level and privileges. Add, edit and sort content, handle your webshop settings, adjust user privileges and roles, change design and layout - it is all done in the Admin interface.

Thousands of enterprises, governmental offices, organizations and educational institutions trust eZ publish.

Our goal was to bring all the different regional sites into one, and by that get an editorial coherence. eZ publish gave us the means to start over and to get all the information at INRA in one place.

Enterprise Open Source - by eZ systems

Enterprise software

eZ systems has a team of professional software developers responsible for creating and maintaining the eZ publish software. We follow strict development processes making sure the software has the quality and capabilities expected from an enterprise environment.

Open Source code

Enjoy the freedom of the Open Source dual license model of eZ systems. You are free to download and use the software following the GPL license or to enjoy the extended protection and opportunities of the eZ publish Professional License.

Total product responsibility

eZ systems, the Enterprise Open Source company, takes total product responsibility for the eZ publish software. We provide a full range of services, knowledge sharing and support, making sure you get the most out of your eZ publish projects and investments.

eZ systems - the creator of eZ publish eZ systems was founded in 1999 with one simple and pragmatic idea: people working together, sharing experiences and ideas, can accomplish great things. With this simple idea, eZ systems has grown into a vibrant corporation with a thriving ecosystem of users, partners, customers and the "eZ crew" team members. As a company, we number 70 people with headquarters in Norway and offices in Germany, Ukraine, Denmark, Canada and France. The eZ publish community has thousands of members all over the globe.

We support our vision with a business model that combines innovations from the Open Source software development world with proven strategies from traditional software enterprises. Our flagship product, eZ publish, is an Open Source Enterprise Content Management System (ECMS). Working together with our community and our partners, we serve ventures world-wide, ranging from single-person web shops to multinational enterprises, from regional governments to global humanitarian organizations.

"eZ systems with the product eZ publish, follows a "best of both worlds" strategy. eZ publish is open source and can be used following the free GPL license or you can buy the professional license and support services. eZ publish gains through high performance, scalability and security, a user friendly user interface and a general high level of standard functionality – from blog to photogallery."
